Dear Reader:

The Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), the Executive Office of Environmental Affairs (EOEA) and MassRecycle are please to provide you with the 1995 MassRecycle Statewide Municipal Recycling and Composting Guide. The guide lists the residential recycling and composting programs for all 351 Massachusetts municipalities. The Guide provides information on the following: the recycling contact person name, their phone number, type of recycling program(s), materials accepted and hours/days of operation.

The Guide is designed to be an easy-to-use reference for residents, recycling coordinators, municipal planners and administrators. The Guide is an excellent tool when making changes and improvements to your community recycling and composting programs. We encourage you to contact other cities and towns, to share information and benefit from the experiences of others in developing successful recycling programs.

We would like to thank Dorothy Suput, MassRecycle Project Manager, Earthworm Inc the Center for Ecological Technology (CET), Fundamental Action to Conserve Energy (FACE) and Boucher Design for their assistance in developing this guide. It is through collaborative efforts like this that we will move forward toward realizing Massachusetts' recycling goal of 46% by the year 2000.

If you need additional copies or have questions about the guide, please call MassRecycle at (617) 338-0244.

Massachusetts Recycling Facts

General Massachusetts Solid Waste Facts:

- Massachusetts has 351 cities and towns with a total population of approximately 6.2 million residents.
- Including at home and at work discards, the average Massachusetts residents generates about 6 pounds of trash a day (2½ lbs. of home waste). Roughly 7 million tons of Municipal Solid Waste was generated in Massachusetts in 1994, approximately 30% of this was recycled or composted.
- In 1990 the Commonwealth set recycling goals for the amount of waste we generated: by the year 2000 46% will be recycled and composted.
- The first step towards reaching our recycling goals is to provide people with access to recycling opportunities. There has been strong growth in the number of recycling programs, and the types of materials collected through them in the last five years. For example, in 1990, 20 communities provide their residents with curbside recycling services, today 141 communities offer this service to over 66% of the population.
- The second step is ensuring that people participate in the recycling programs they have access to. In order to reach our goal of 46% recycled by the year 2000, participation rates need to approach 85%.

Access to Recycling:

- Since 1992, approximately 1.2 million more Massachusetts residents have access to curbside recycling. Today, nearly 67%, or 4.1 million residents have of curbside pickup of some or all of their recyclables. 1.9 million have access to a drop-off recycling center in their town.
- 337 of Massachusetts' 351 communities have some newspaper recycling program. This translates into 97% of residents having the opportunity to recycle newspapers. However 13% have access to only a drop-off recycling center for newspapers even though their trash is collected at the curb. 66% of residents can recycle newspapers at the curb, 1.2 million more people than in 1992.
- 245 cities and town have magazine recycling programs. 4.7 million residents or, 75% of the population, have access to magazine recycling, 55% have magazines collected at the curb.
- Corrugated Cardboard is included in the recycling collection programs of 245 cities and town. The number of resident who have access to OCC recycling has doubled from 32% in 1992 to nearly 66% today.
- Only 18% of the State's residents live in cities or towns with recycling programs for aseptic or waxed containers and only 23% have access to recycle chipboard, boxboard or other paperboard materials.
- Other paper, such as junk mail, computer paper, color or office paper, can be recycled in the programs of 246 communities providing recycling access for 3.9 million residents.
- Glass is the second most commonly recycled material in Massachusetts. 338 Communities include glass in their recycling programs. 67% of the glass is collected at the curb, however 12% of residents (approximately 700,000) can only recycle glass at a drop-off center even though their trash is collect at the curb.
- 57 more communities offer their residents the opportunity to recycle plastic containers today than in 1992. 4.9 million residents have access to #1 plastic recycling, 5.5 million have access to #2 plastic recycling. Approximately 60% of residents can recycle plastic at the curb.

Participation Rates:

- If participation in available municipal recycling programs increased to 85%, an additional 300,000 tons of newspapers, magazines, cardboard, and other paper materials would be collected for recycling.
- Although the opportunity to recycle is available to nearly every resident, current participation rates range from 25-70%, with some of the most populous cites having the lowest rates.
- Recycling and composting provide important environmental benefits by reducing the need for solid waste disposal capacity, conserving natural resources through reducing use of virgin materials, and converting organic wastes into a beneficial resource. Recycling Industries generate over $600 million in value and support over 10,000 jobs in Massachusetts.
